If the 37,000 of them not accounted for in that showing voted for Bryan, then, as loyal Democrats, supporting their party colors, and deferring to the will of the majority, it would scarce be likely that they would boit in a State election, where francial issues are more predominant. If they did boit then, and voted for McKinley, surely he would not think it reasonable that Democratic counsels should be controlled by tariff reformers of the McKinley type, or financial reformers of the Sherman type.

He certainly never gave such counsels the country always in the Seventh senatorial district of Virginia have issued a call

ROANOKE CONVENTION AND GOVERNOR'S EPITHETS.

I had the honor of being a member of the Roanoke convention and the chairman of its Committee on Resolutions. I take my full share of responsibility for its endorsement of the Chicago platform, and I advise all who question that platform to read it carefully, and not to accept loose criticisms as true indications of their action in endorsing the platform. The convention was very numerously attended. It also was unanimous. It consisted very largely of the same persons who nominated Governor O'Ferral in 1893. It consisted altogether of the same classes of persons who nominated him, and was a noble and imposing body of yeomanry, artisans, merchants, manufacturers, bankers, and professional men of the State, than which our homes, fire-contained.

Governor O'Ferrall derides this Yet Governor O'Ferrail derides this convention and its action. He has so contracted his vision that he styles its scalers as "crazed with temporary power"—as "deaf to all appeals for harmony," and as "in their frenzy deciring they did not want the affiliation of gold-men." This extravagance analysis of the properties and a power in the contract of of gold-men. The epithets need no answer. They ill-become his exaited staion. They seem especially ill-placed, as applied to those of his fellow-citizens whom he owes in part that exalta-

There was no appeal made by any one that did not have respectful audience. If there was by one present who entertained the Sovernor's peculiar views, he did not sake himself known to his colleagues. The Opening of the Schools-The Witson Installation Programme.

LEXINGTON, VA., September 3.-(Spe cial.)-The Virginia Military Institute opened informally Wednesday, and the prospects for the coming session are very flattering, as far as numbers are concerned. Mr. J. Scott Moore has recently pur-chased from the Biltmore estates, the property of George W. Vanderbilt, at Asheville, N. C., an English Berkshire boar, a grandson of the famous Long-fellow, which is said to have been the best hog that ever lived, having brought famous English breeder, N. Benjafield, of Montcomb, England, an English Berk-shire boar, for which he will pay a good round sum. These high-bred animals will be used for breeding purposes by their owners.

There will be, September 11th, a meeting of the Rockbridge farmers at Bethel school-house, about two miles southwest of Lexington, for the purpose of organizing a monthly stock sale for the sale of live stock. These stock sales are cus tomary in many States of the West, and have been found to be a most satisfac-tory method of marketing stock, and will, no doubt, prove a valuable d parture for the farmers of this county.

Does he not apprehend that some of the loyal supporters of Bryan might have kicked against so extraordinary an illustration of the mountain going to Mahomet? True, he claims there are 40,000 gold Democrats in Virginia. This may be, I cannot count, perhaps, as well as the Governor. But, if so, where were they in the last presidential election, when but 2,127 votes were polled for Palmer and Buckner?
